MORE HELP AT THE POST OFFICE

Inspector from Post Office Department has been Here Helping to Systematize work. Arrangement of Mails for New Train Schedule.

Inspector Crawford of the Post Office Department has been in Gettysburg for the past three days at the request of Postmaster Duncan for the purpose of systematizing the work in the local office. He is also observing the present force with the view of granting an application for additional clerks.

More help is needed, it is contended, because the money-order, registry, stamp and general delivery windows in the old office were so situated that they could be attended to by one or at least two clerks. In the present building they are so far removed from each other that it is impossible for one man to wait upon the patrons of more than two windows. This means, at present, that one and often two of the clerks who formerly assisted in assorting the mail are required to abandon that employment to wait upon the people calling at the windows. Although the inspector has not definitely stated what recommendation he will make it is thought he will suggest the appointment of one additional employee to the department.

Orders from the Department were received at the office yesterday for the dispatching of the pouches to accommodate the new railway schedule. Train number 8, arriving at 5:40 a. m. will bring a pouch made up at Hagerstown, and carry a closed pouch to Baltimore. The corresponding train, number 7, going west and arriving here at 11:22 p. m. will bring a closed pouch from Baltimore that will contain all mail deposited at Baltimore up to 8:30 of that evening. This pouch will remain in the baggage room at the station until the carrier comes to meet the 5:40 train the following morning. Train number 7 will not receive mail at Gettysburg. The mail from both trains, numbers 7 and 8, will be delivered by the town carriers on their first trip in the morning and business places will not have to wait until 10:30, for their morning mail.

Since the mail clerk on train number 92 of the Reading road, leaving here at 5:55 a. m. has been discontinued a pouch containing the pieces addressed to the towns along the line will be sent to Bowmansdale where it will be delivered to train number 49, arriving here at 9:15 and distributed en route by the clerk on that train.

HENRY B. JACOBS

Henry B. Jacobs, of East Berlin, died from the effects of paralysis at his home Wednesday. He was about 65 years of age. During his life, Mr. Jacobs took an active part in the affairs of his home town and held a number of borough offices.

He is survived by his wife, four sons and two daughters: George, of Rossville, York County; Charles, of Mantana; Robert and Paul, of East Berlin; Anna and Bertha, who reside at home.

According to present arrangements the funeral will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. S. B. Sternat to conduct the services. Interment will be in the Union cemetery.

BOTH MOTHER AND SON

Operated upon at Same Time for Same Trouble.

A rare co-incidence of mother and son having the same operation performed at the same time occurred at the York hospital to-day when Mrs. Emory Plank, of East Water street, and her son, Preston, had their tonsils removed. In addition to the operation on the tonsils, Preston, who is but three years old, also had adenoids removed. The child is very popular in his neighborhood and his early return is looked forward to by his many friends.

MAY DELIVER NOW

Under new Interpretation of Market Ordinance Purchases can be delivered.

Under the present interpretation of the market ordinance passed this year, marketmen will be allowed to deliver orders from customers either before or after market hours. Formerly they were not permitted to make any delivery on the days market was held.

OBSERVE SUNDAY AS FATHER'S DAY

Movement Started Five Years ago. Gathered Headway until now it is Observed in all Sections. Red and White Roses the Emblem.

Sunday, June 21, will be Father's Day. Many have protested that poor old father can worry along very well without a day, but the movement started in Spokane, Washington, five years ago by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, has now been officially recognized by both Houses of Congress and the anniversary will be observed in enough cities to make it a national festival.

The Father's Day movement has even spread beyond our shores. It has been taken up in Germany, Sweden, Korea, Japan, Hawaii, Canada, and India.

To observe Father's Day one has only to wear a cluster of red and white roses in the button-hole or at the corsage on the third Sunday in June. It is the beloved father who has passed this life rather than the living father who is commemorated.

The custom of Father's Day grows out of Mother's Day. Mrs. Dodd, foundress of Father's Day, first interested her friends in Spokane. This was in 1909. The next year the Spokane Y. M. C. A. gave the day formal endorsement. Then followed the approval of Mayor N. S. Pratt and Governor M. E. Hay. In June the Spokane Ministers' Alliance accepted the invitation of Mrs. Dodd to approve and adopt the plan. Many publications supported the movement, leaders in other cities took it up and Sunday in thousands of pulpits sermons appropriate to the occasion will be delivered. In many churches baskets of roses will be passed among the congregations.

DEFEATED ST. JAMES

Last Year's Strong Players Defeated First Time by Reformed Team

In a game featured by the pitching of Appler and the fielding of Woodward the Reformed team defeated St. James by the score 6-1.

St. James failed to score in the first three innings. In the second the Reformed team scored four runs. Appler led off with a double and Stahle singled, Appler halting at third, G. Kendlehart struck out; Rupp, after fouling five balls, hit one to Troxell who threw too late to catch Appler at the plate; Stahle took third on the play; Hartzell struck out Thompson but Menchey gave Duncan life by a wild throw over Sach's head, Stahle and Rupp scoring; Duncan reached third and scored on a wild pitch by Hartzell.

St. James scored on the fourth. Gentzler walked and reached second on Appler's wild heave to first. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Menchey's grounder to G. Kendlehart.

The Reformed team scored two more in the third. D. Kendlehart walked and Appler singled, Appler reaching second on the play at third to get Kendlehart; Hartzell struck out Stahle but Heagy dropped the ball. Heagy hit Stahle on the back with the ball in an attempt to get him at first, Kendlehart and Appler scoring when the ball rolled into foul territory. Batteries: St. James, Hartzell and Heagy, Wright. Reformed: Appler and Stahle. To-night's game will be played by Methodist-College vs Catholic.

NO ORCHESTRA DANCES

Patronage at Caledonia not Sufficient to Warrant it.

Says the Chambersburg Public Opinion:

"Several young men of town have made an effort to secure enough subscribers to guarantee Saturday night orchestra dances at Caledonia during the season. But the tangoers (broad a please) wouldn't come across with promises of the mazuma and as all the music by the orchestra is not made by wind, there will be no orchestra dances, as far as this set of patrons of Terpsichore is concerned. They paid for their role of patron last Saturday night."

C. E. CONVENTION AT ARENDTSTVILLE

Has Been in Session Since Wednesday. Number of Gettysburg People Taking Part in Program. Fifty Children went in Automobiles.

Adams County's Christian Endeavor convention now in session at the Trinity Lutheran church at Arendtsville is presenting an interesting program. The initial meeting was held Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock when an address of welcome was made by the association's president, Miss Mary Rice. This was responded to by Miss Basehoar, of Littlestown. The song service was conducted by Irvin L. Taylor, of Gettysburg; then followed devotional service lead by D. M. Hoffman, of Biglerville.

C. C. Culp, of Gettysburg, the county president, opened the evening meeting by delivering an address on "Our Harvest." H. B. McRory, the state secretary from Pittsburgh, told in an interesting manner of Christian Endeavor activity.

At 6 o'clock this morning a sunrise service was held during which Rev. D. T. Koser delivered an address, using for his subject: "The Morning Watch." This meeting was lead by H. K. Raffensperger. The regular morning session started at 8:30. Rev. J. B. Baker, of Gettysburg was present and spoke of committee work; after a period of song Rev. T. C. Hesson conducted the devotional exercises. Mr. McRory was to have spoken again this morning but was unexpectedly called away and his place was taken by Miss Howard who is at present making a tour of the county in the interest of the woman suffrage movement. Rev. Emory Stockslager talked on "Christian Endeavor Principles" and "Paths that Lead to Junior Success" was very aptly treated by Miss Myrtle Mayberry, of Dillsburg. At 11 o'clock Miss Grace Reimer, a state worker, discussed conference missions.

A large part of this afternoon's service was devoted to several hundred children gathered from surrounding towns. The little tots enthusiastically sang a number of hymns they had practiced for the occasion. About fifty in number were taken from Gettysburg in automobiles. The convention will be continued until to-morrow noon.

POULTRY TO PATIENTS

At Alto Sanatorium Raises its Own Poultry for Patients.

A busy place at the White Pine Sanatorium at Mont Alto is the poultry yards, presided over by Levi Wagaman. The henry now contains 996 chickens and about 1,300 small chicks. Between forty and forty-three dozens of eggs are gathered each day and fed to the patients—which, by the way, is not nearly the quantity consumed each day by the several hundred patients at the institution. Besides these, there are about 1,000 pigeons and hundreds of ducks. The fowls are all used for the sick at the big tubercular sufferers' camp.

AEROPLANE FLIGHTS

Will be Conducted by York Railways Company near Dover.

J. C. Berger closed a contract with the York Railways company to hold an aviation meet at Hilton, along the Dover trolley line. Flights will be made Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 3, 4 and 5 o'clock. The Wright Brothers' passenger carrying aeroplanes will be used. Eugene Heth, who has a wide reputation as an aviator, will make the flights and on a number of his trips he will carry a passenger.

HELD PICNIC

Primary Department Enjoys Half Day's Outing.

The Primary Department of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School had a picnic at Spangler's Spring Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Markley and Mr. Bowers took the children out and back in automobiles. Children took lunch and the teachers served ice cream and cake.

TOURNAMENT FOR TENNIS PLAYERS

To be Held at Playground, Starting Next Week. Sunday School Games Take Patrons. Committee working on Program for Opening Day.

Attendance at the playground during the evenings has fallen off about fifty per cent, according to Custodian Leathers, since the Sunday School base ball teams have begun to play on Nixon Field. When it is understood that as many as four hundred people have been at the ground within one evening and that two hundred and thirty were there at one time last week the remaining adherents need not be lonely.

The five tennis courts under course of construction will be completed this week and Mr. Leathers has arranged to hold a series of tournaments on them, starting Tuesday, June 23rd. The tournament for men and one for women will be played simultaneously. After the winners of the singles have been determined, the youngsters will have a tournament of their own and, if the interest continues a series of doubles will be played. A number of entries are already in the hands of Mr. Leathers and he is willing to receive the names of all those who think they would like to participate. There are many good players in town, so that the outcome will be watched with interest.

Within the past week the electric light company has place poles from Baltimore street to the keeper's house and the building is now illuminated by electricity. It will be opened for general use within a few days; as soon as the directors decide in what manner to proportion the lockers. A small charge will be made for their use but the amount has not been fixed.

At present the committee appointed for the purpose is at work arranging the program for opening day. An effort is being made to have the town base-ball team play the game scheduled with Chambersburg for that afternoon on the field at the playground instead of Nixon Field where it was decided to play all the regular games. The main obstacle is the inability to collect admission fees from the crowd when the field is not enclosed. If the playground directors can in some way arrange for the amount guaranteed the Chambersburg team, it is thought the town team will have no objection to playing there for the day. As this game is scheduled for three o'clock and the festivities will last until dark at least, the Sunday School League will be asked to play their game scheduled for that evening at the playground some time after the Gettysburg-Chambersburg game is finished.

The town band will put in appearance at three o'clock to remain for the rest of the day. During the intermission between the games regularly scheduled, races of various kinds, basket ball games and tugs of war will occupy the attention of the assemblage. A number of tents will be provided for the protection of the women and children from the sun; or in case the weather should be inclement, from the rain. Cards have been distributed to the houses in town requesting the people to contribute some form of refreshment to be sold at the grounds opening day for the benefit of the association. A liberal response to this appeal is expected.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Surprise Party for Popular Young Couple is Double Surprise.

During a surprise party given Tuesday evening at the home Mr. and Mrs. William F. Redding, in honor of their son, Simon, a few of Miss Harriet Miller's friends informally announced her engagement to Mr. Redding. It came as a very great surprise to both parties. The guests spent a very pleasant evening; enjoying greatly the games which had been provided, after which refreshments were served. Having extended best wishes to the happy couples, the guests departed.

FELL FROM LADDER

George Culp, of Arendtsville, fell from a 27 foot ladder Wednesday while working in his orchard. Fortunately, he caught in a limb several feet from the ground. Aside from bruises, Mr. Culp is feeling no ill effects from the experience.

NEW MONEY WILL BE HERE SOON

At the Beginning of the New Banking System within a few Weeks Millions of new paper will be issued.

Millions of dollars' worth of paper money of a new type will be put into circulation with the establishment of the federal reserve banks within the next few weeks. Under the federal reserve bank act, each of the 12 federal reserve banks will receive advances from the federal reserve board in the form of federal reserve notes, a distinctly new sort of paper money. Commercial paper will be collateral advanced by the various banks as security for these notes.

Comptroller of the Currency Williams has samples of this new paper money now under consideration. At his request Joseph E. Ralph, director of the bureau of engraving and printing, prepared notes of $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations and these have been submitted to Secretary McAdoo. It is not likely, however, that the samples will be officially accepted until the members of the federal reserve board have been confirmed by the senate and can confer with Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams concerning the new notes.

The new $5 note submitted by Mr. Ralph is typical of agriculture. The portrait on the face of the note is Lincoln's and the back shows a harvesting machine and allegorical figures typical of farming. The $10 note bears a portrait of Cleveland and a manufacturing scene. The $20 note bears Jackson's portrait and is typical of commerce, having a steamship, train and other mediums of trade on the back. Grant's picture is shown on the $50 note, and Franklin's portrait adorns the $100 bill. Both of these larger bills are typical of the arts. All the bills will be printed in green ink on the back, while black ink will be used on the faces.

GEN. VILLA SEIZES CONTROL IN NORTH

All Carranza Officers Arrested in Juarez.

MAY START A REVOLT

Denies Break With Chief, But It Is Said He Resigned and Is Preparing to Turn Army Against Leader.

El Paso, Tex., June 18.—Acting in the name of General Francisco Villa, Constitutional army detachments seized the custom house, telegraph office, treasury department and information bureau in Juarez, across the Rio Grande from here.

The Carranza appointees who had charge of these offices were arrested. Similar action, it is reported, was taken at Chihuahua and Torreon, and probably other important points in the northern military zone.

It was reported with circumstantial detail that gained credence that Villa had resigned as commander-in-chief of the north and that the sudden action was a coup d'etat sprung by Villa to signalize the long-expected break between him and Carranza. A new revolution, headed by Villa, is expected to be declared.

Despite these dramatic and menacing happenings, General Villa, through his agents, issued a general denial of reports that there had been a split between him and General Venustiano Carranza, "first chief" of the Constitutionalists. He said the arrest of the Carranza officials at Juarez had been the result of a misunderstanding of orders on the part of Colonel Ornelas in charge of the Juarez garrison.

It was learned, however, that from twenty to thirty employees of the Juarez offices were sent on a special train to Chihuahua City, the state capital, thence to be transported to Torreon, where Villa remained. These men, Carranza adherents, were arrested by Colonel Ornelas in his raids.

Partisans of Carranza and Villa at El Paso discussed hotly the future of the Constitutional movement. The question of the Niagara Falls conference played an important part in the argument, especially as regards the naming of provisional president.

Some of the Villa supporters even declared that General Felipe Angeles, secretary of war in Carranza's cabinet, had been selected by Villa for provisional president in place of Carranza, as some partisan publications had suggested.

Angeles, a former Federal general, has been commanding Villa's artillery since the battle of Torreon, and Tuesday departed for the front above Zacatecas, according to official notice.

It was asserted without qualification that General Villa had resigned as commander of the northern military zone and that it was final. To Villa's message offering his resignation, Carranza replied asking who would succeed him.

Following this, Villa's various military chiefs held a conference and sent a "round robin" to Carranza, declaring they would accept none other than Villa as a leader. The action in seizing the civil offices and arresting the Carranza adherents, it is said, came as a result.

MAY CHANGE U. S. POLICY

Expected to Result From Unsatisfactory Meeting With Carranza Men. Niagara Falls, Ont., June 18.—On word from the Washington government depends on the next move in mediation.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann telegraphed a 2000-word report of their conference at Buffalo with Rafael Zubaran and Luis Cabreria, authorized representatives of General Carranza.

The feeling is general that the United States may make a distinct change of policy as a result of the uncompromising attitude of Zubaran and Cabreria, dispatches telling of friction between General Carranza and Villa, reports of a rupture in Sonora between Governor Maytorena and General Obregon and news of Constitutionalists reverses both on land and sea.

Emilio Rabasa, head of the Huerta delegation, said that he and his associates would do everything in their power to prevent a break in negotiations. His suggestion was that a neutral be proposed for the provisional presidency and that the United States accord recognition to him. Rabasa declared that a person of capacity and honesty would be chosen and that as soon as the United States accorded the new president recognition, funds and arms could be obtained so that it would be conceded that there were two factions that must be considered.

Although generally termed unsatisfactory, it is learned that the American delegates in their conference with the Constitutionalists received the suggestion of one name, which they have some hope may prove acceptable to the Huerta delegates.

The Constitutionalists explained to the Americans in detail and with emphasis that there could be no compromise in any shape or form with General Huerta or any of his party; that a prominent Constitutionalists alone would be accepted by them for the presidency, and that the military triumph of the revolution was inevitable.

3 DROWNED IN WELL 25 FEET DEEP

Boy Fell In and Chum and Uncle Tried to Save Him.

Driftwood, Pa., June 18.—Two boys and a man were drowned in an abandoned well here.

The boys were playing about the well and one fell in. His companion descended into the well and tried to save him. An uncle of one of the boys then descended into the well and the boys dragged him under the surface of the water.

The dead are: Harold Jordan, aged eleven years; Rodney Ives, seventeen years old, and John Jordan, fifty-five years old, an uncle of Harold Jordan. It was Harold Jordan who first fell into the well, which is about twenty-five feet deep. Rodney Ives then climbed down the wall of the well in an attempt to rescue his companion, and he fell into the water.

Hearing the cries of the boys, John Jordan rushed to the scene and also climbed down. Immediately the boys, nearly exhausted, grabbed hold of Jordan and dragged him under the water. By this time other persons had arrived and made attempts at rescue, but without success.

TWO WOMEN BEHEADED

German Headsman, as Bound by Law, Wore Full Dress.

Berlin, June 18.—Two women in Germany paid the life penalty on the headsman's block.

At Strasburg, Magdalene Wendell, forty-one years old, was beheaded while in a faint, together with H. Wirth, who was convicted of poisoning the Wendell woman's husband.

At Graudenz, Frau M. Haas also died by the axe, likewise for the murder of her husband by poison that she might marry her lover.

In both cases, according to the German custom, the headsman wore full dress clothes.

SNAKE ATTACKS BABY

Reptile Had Hold of Child's Finger When Mother Drove It Off.

Reading, Pa., June 18.—When Mrs. Amos Edwards, of Cedar Top, Berks county, returned to the house after working in her truck garden she was horrified to find a snake attacking her year-old baby.

The snake had hold of one of the child's fingers, and when Mrs. Edwards shook the little one's hand the reptile let go and wriggled away. Later the snake was shot by the child's grandfather and was found to measure four feet.

SHIPS COLLIDE; 1000 IN PERIL

Incmore Strikes Kaiser Wilhelm II During Fog.

BIG HOLE IN HER SIDE

German Liner Limpers Into Port at Southampton After Crash and Passengers Will Be Transferred.

Southampton, Eng., June 18.—The North German Lloyd line steamship Wilhelm II., with a large list of passengers bound for New York, limped into this port apparently damaged below the water line as a result of a collision with the British ship Incmore in the English channel.

The Kaiser Wilhelm II. was listing heavily. Her watertight compartments, confined the rushing water to the damaged section. The Incmore's bow was badly smashed, but it is not believed her shell was punctured below the waterline.

The collision occurred in a thick fog, which made it impossible to see more than a ship's length away.

The officers of the Kaiser Wilhelm II. have permitted no communication to be held with any one on board, and they themselves refuse to give out any information. Such scant details as have been obtained came from the Incmore. That vessel, it is stated by those on board, had virtually come to a stop because of the danger of continuing under way in such a thick fog, when suddenly there loomed up just ahead of her the huge bulk of the Kaiser Wilhelm.

Both captains did their best to avert a collision, but the short distance separating the two vessels rendered their efforts ineffectual, and the Incmore struck the liner on the starboard side amidships. The force of the impact crumpled up her own bows and tore a big gap in the Kaiser Wilhelm's side. It was the impression of those aboard the Incmore that the hole was entirely above the water line.

The two steamers stood by each other until it was ascertained that neither needed immediate assistance; then both started slowly for Southampton. The forepeak of the Incmore rapidly filled with water, but the great bulkhead "centered" it there, and although so much down by the bows that the propeller was half out of the water, she managed to crawl into port.

There it was found that the damage to the bows extended for a length of twelve feet and a width of ten feet.

The passengers of the Kaiser Wilhelm will be transferred to the Imperator. It will take some time, it is said, to repair the damage done to the Kaiser Wilhelm.

The bow of the Incmore was stove in, but the damage was all above the water line, and she was in no danger at any time of sinking. She will be able to continue her voyage after slight repairs.

The Kaiser Wilhelm was bound for New York via Cherbourg. She carried 1000 passengers. The Incmore is a Liverpool grain ship and was bound for Antwerp.

FEDERALS SINK REBEL BOAT

Destroy the Tampico and U. S. Warships Rescue Many of Crew.

Washington, June 18.—The Huerta gunboat Guerrero defeated and sank the Constitutional gunboat Tampico off Topolobampo, on the west coast according to a report from Rear Admiral Howard.

The rebels lost ten killed and ten wounded; the Federals none. In despair at the outcome, Captain Malpica and his chief engineer, after fighting with great bravery against heavy odds committed suicide.

The rest of the crew was rescued by the cruiser New Orleans and the Guerrero. The surgeon of the New Orleans gave medical assistance to the wounded on the Guerrero.

The battle was witnessed by three American ships, the New Orleans and the destroyers Perry and Preble. The Tampico recently was raised by the rebels off Mazatlan, where she had sunk.

It is believed that the victorious Guerrero now will be able to interfere greatly with the rebels' siege operations at Mazatlan.

Hospital Ship Wrecked.

Glasgow, June 18.—The hospital ship Maine, presented to the British nation by American women during the South African war, went ashore in the Firth of Lorne, on the west coast of Scotland, during a fog. It is feared she will be a total loss. The Maine had a large number of patients on board.

Boy, 19, to Die in Chair.

Ironton, O., June 18.—Harley Beard, aged nineteen years, was sentenced to death in the chair Oct. 2 for the murder of Mrs. Nancy Masie and her daughter and son, Mary and Robert, at Greasy Ridge, near here, on May 13, Beard confessed. He was employed by the Masie family as a farm hand.

Killed by Fall Down Hill.

Shenandoah, Pa., June 18.—James McNamara, thirty-five years old, a Philadelphia, employed by a carnival company exhibiting here, was killed when he rolled down an embankment and his head struck a large stone.

VON BERNSTORFF IN AUTO UNDER FIRE

Illinois Cop Shoots at Car When It Fails to Halt.

Champaign, Ill., June 18.—Count von Bernstorff, ambassador from Germany to the United States, had a narrow escape when a special policeman fired at the motor car in which the ambassador was being driven to the commencement exercises of the University of Illinois. The shot went wild and was not repeated.

Count von Bernstorff was riding to the campus from the railroad station. He was escorted by Arthur Meeker, of Chicago; Dr. David Kinley, vice president of the university, and Dr. Ewerts Boutelle Greene.

As the car neared First street and University avenue, Michael Murphy, a special policeman employed by neighborhood business men, held up his hand as a warning signal. Murphy was not in uniform and the chauffeur paid no attention to him. Apparently angered at the inattention, Murphy fired one shot at the motor car. "I fired at the tires," explained Murphy.

ROOSEVELT'S THROAT BAD

Doctor Says It Is Impossible For Colonel to Speak in Open Air.

London, June 18.—Colonel Roosevelt will make no open air speeches when he returns to the United States and will limit the number of addresses in doors during the campaign to a considerably smaller number than he had expected to deliver.

Dr. St. Clair Thompson, the throat specialist, whom he visited, has placed an absolute prohibition on continuous speaking by the colonel.

Many persons who heard Mr. Roosevelt's lecture before the Royal Geographical society were surprised at the weakness of his voice. The stenographer notes to which those who had heard him before were lacking. Colonel Roosevelt himself was surprised and anxious, so he determined to consult the specialist.

The physician said it would be impossible for Colonel Roosevelt to undertake a continuous campaign or to speak in the open air during the next three months. In the meantime, he advised him to make only a few speeches. Colonel Roosevelt was the guest at breakfast of the bishop of London to whom he expressed great interest in his work in the East End slums of London.

HUERTA AND CARDEN CLASH

Threatens to Arrest British Ambassador When Flight Is Suggested.

Vera Cruz, Mex., June 18.—British subjects who arrived from Mexico City report a recent clash between Provisional President Huerta and Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister.

The dispute arose out of the advice volunteered by Sir Lionel that the de facto president should resign and leave the country immediately. The British minister also offered Huerta safe conduct and a warship to take him and his family to any port he might name.

Huerta is said to have become enraged and to have threatened to arrest Sir Lionel if he ever repeated the proposal. Sir Lionel is said to have based his suggestion on his personal friendly relations with Huerta and to have urged upon him that the time has come when flight was his only recourse.

Eugenics Law Upheld.

Madison, Wis., June 18.—The Wisconsin supreme court sustained the Wisconsin eugenics law, providing that couples intending to be married must get physicians' certificates that they are physically fit before they can have a license.

French Army Aviator Killed.

Paris, June 18.—Commander Felix a French military aviator, was killed in a fall during a flight in a new biplane.

Y. M. C. A. BURNS

New $70,000 Building at Carlisle Badly Damaged by Flames.

Only the heroism of several members of the association, who discovered the flames and fought them until the coming of the fire companies, saved from destruction the magnificent new building of the Carlisle Y. M. C. A., recently completed at a cost of $70,000. This is the opinion of department chiefs, following an inspection of the fire which caused damage amounting to about $10,000 and resulted in the serious injury of Burgess Peter W. Morris, assistant fire chief, as well as several members of the association and firemen overcome by smoke.

While directing the placing of a line of hose, Peter W. Morris, Burgess of the town and for many years fire chief, was struck on the head by the heavy nozzle, rendered unconscious, and probably seriously injured. There were also minor cases of firemen being overcome by the heavy smoke. The fire started immediately under the big gymnasium which is one of the most finely equipped in the State. The damage here is most apparent and the chief loss was occasioned. The equipment is practically destroyed and the whole rear of the building will probably have to be rebuilt. The bowling alleys which were in the basement were totally destroyed and minor damage was that occasioned by smoke and water bring the entire total of damage up to about $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

THE WORK OF A BUSY CONGRESS

Important Legislation That Has Been Enacted.

SECOND IN POINT OF LAWS

Thirteen Acts of General Importance Have Been Passed, and at Least Fifteen More Pieces of Legislation Are Awaiting Action—Hoping to Clean the Slate.

The pending session is destined to be a record breaker, legislatively speaking. At the present time thirteen acts of general importance are now laws as a result of the work of this session of congress. At least fifteen more separate pieces of important legislation await action, the major portion of which is almost certain to pass the house if not the senate before adjournment. No congress except probably the first congress ever passed so many laws, says the New York Post.

The present session of congress is really a hang-over from the last one. Halting only for five minutes, the last session of congress merged into the present one, and after approximately six months of labor this session of congress has produced the following public legislation to date:

Record of Present Session.

A resolution providing a temporary method for conducting the nomination and election of senators under the new constitutional amendment.

Money orders have been made payable at any postoffice.

A law intended to be a model has been passed abolishing a segregated vice district in the city of Washington.

Another act reorganizes the naval militia with a view to greater efficiency.

Another model law was passed regulating the hours of employment and safeguarding the health of women employed in the District of Columbia.

The Alaska railroad bill.

Further relief for American citizens in Mexico.

The volunteer bill, providing a complete plan for the organization of an army of defense.

Agricultural extension bill.

Legations in Argentina and Chile raised to embassies.

Commission authorized to study vocational education.

Resolution justifying the president in using the armed forces of the United States in Mexico.

Senate has decided election contests in Maryland and Alabama.

Mother's day established.

Awaiting Final Action.

This program of legislation, in addition to the appropriation bills, is of considerable length in itself, but the program which is awaiting final action in congress is fully as momentous. It includes:

The immigration bill, carrying an educational test, has passed the house and awaits the disposition of the senate.

Anti-trust legislation, carried in three separate bills in the house, which really embrace six separate pieces of legislation which hitherto have been attempted to be passed separately.

Five separate conservation bills, as follows: Alaska coal leasing bill; bill to encourage prospecting, mining and treatment of radium bearing ores on public lands; reclamation bill, extending time in which settlers may make payments; bill to regulate the development of water power on public lands, and a bill to codify and readjust the mining laws.

Philippine legislation, the Stevens railway safety appliance bill and constitutional amendments providing for national prohibition and for woman suffrage are also ahead.

Hoping to Clean the Slate.

This is the ambitious program now confronting congress. Many members of the house believe that if the senate remains in session long enough on the trust question these measures can all be sent to that body. Rather than have them fall of passage at the short session of congress next winter for lack of time primarily, great pressure will be brought to bear to clean the slate before the adjournment of this session.

The president, however, believes that the anti-trust bill should be passed before adjournment.

PEOPLE IN GLASS HOUSES.

We'll All Live In Them Soon, Is Prediction of a German Writer.

Paul Scheerbart, the well known writer, prophesies that the architecture of the future will be of glass and that the world will be inhabited by a happy race living under the good influence of light.

"The houses will be of glass," he says, "with all wood eliminated. The furniture will be of wrought iron, and the framework of the buildings will be of iron and rustproof, while the walls will be of double glass to insure warmth and of many colors in order to battle inquisitive persons."

Herr Scheerbart draws a brilliant word picture of a city, with stores, churches and public buildings of glass, all brilliantly lighted, in many colors.

Bruno Traut, the architect, built a palace along these lines at the Cologne exposition.

JUNE

Oh, the roses bloom so sweetly
And the song birds are in tune
And the blossoms charm completely
In the gentle month of June!

But the summer always offers
To the cynics and the scoffers
Certain very grave temptations
Unto hostile demonstrations.
And you hear dull threats ascending
Near the fences that need mending.
Various epithets come rattling
Like the contents of a Galing.
And the talk, once somewhat fluff,
Gets more serious and huffy
As we hear of lethal cargoes,
Barbarous and strict embargoes.
Men with mild and moral missions
Lose their lovely dispositions
As the warmth gets too infernal
To be mentioned in the journal.

Though we sing in strains prophetic
Of sweet perfumes 'neath the moon.
There is much that's unpoetic
In the mystic month of June.
—Washington Star.

HOW TO PRESERVE ROSE-BUSHES AFTER BLOOMING.

Landscape Gardener of Department of Agriculture Offers Valuable Hints.

After the blooming season of climbing roses is over in June the department of agriculture's landscape gardener advises that shoots should be pruned so as to throw the growth of the plant into the new wood that bore no flowers this year, for this is the part of the plant that will bear next year. When a trellis is low (six or eight feet high) it is a good plan to cut off the shoots that have borne flowers this year close to the ground.

Most people in following this advice may feel that they are ruining their bushes to cut them back so severely, but the young shoots that have started about the roots will surprise them by springing up with wonderful rapidity. One shoot in a Washington garden last year grew twenty feet after the bush had been cut down in this manner.

In the case of a high trellis a different method must be followed. The renewal of wood must begin from a point higher up instead of from the root, as the growth of a bush is not enough to replace all its top on a high trellis if required to grow so far. Only so much of the old wood should be removed after the flowers have bloomed as will enable the new shoots from the end of the remaining portion of the stalk to replace the old growth. About four feet is a safe measure of the amount that may be taken off.

These who have grown climbing roses as a screen on their porches in order to insure a fine bloom the coming year will do well to follow the advice as given for the higher trellis. In other words, about four feet of the old stalks that have bloomed should be cut off immediately after the blossoms are withered. The foliage will recover within a very short period and continue to screen the porch, and next year an abundant crop of blossoms will be assured.

REMODELS CLUBFOOTED BOY.

Surgeon Cuts Ligaments, Separates Tendons and Readjusts Bones.

With feet that were formerly "clubbed" and turned under and that are now quite normal, little William Averill, a five-year-old boy, whose home is near Oxford, N. C., left the Emergency hospital, Washington, after having undergone an operation which has proved one of the greatest triumphs of modern surgery ever won in Washington.

The operating surgeon, Dr. A. R. Shands, went to work on one foot and then on the other, cutting ligaments here, separating tendons and readjusting bones there and all but amputating the unconscious child's feet.

Then both members were readjusted, given the necessary antiseptic treatment and then skillfully wrapped in great plaster of paris cases, which extended to the knees.

Again the limp little form was put to bed, and it was not many hours before he recovered from the anaesthetic. The patient resumed his cheerfulness in time, and the process of healing was rapid. Finally he was allowed to move about in bed, and each day he became more active.

WHO WILLIAM G. SHARP IS.

Facts Concerning Ohioan Nominated to Be Our Ambassador to France.

Representative William G. Sharp, ranking Democratic member of the Ohio delegation nominated by President Wilson to be ambassador to France, is a wealthy manufacturer of Elvira. He is fifty-five years old and a lawyer. He was elected to the Sixty-first congress, to the Sixty-second congress and re-elected to the Sixty-third congress.

He and his twin brother, George, attended the public schools of Elvira and were commonly known as "Big G" and "Little G."

Representative Sharp acquired wealth in the manufacture of wood alcohol and has valuable real estate holdings at Elvira and Lorain.

Mr. Sharp will succeed Myron T. Herrick, former Republican governor of Ohio. His Democratic colleagues characterize him as "an old fashioned Cleveland type" of Democrat. During the pre-convention campaign he supported Judson Harman of Ohio for the Democratic presidential nomination. After Mr. Wilson's nomination was assured he went to work in behalf of the president.

SEA CRASH HAD COMIC PHASES

Two Fat Men, Wedged In Cabin Doorways, Pried Loose.

A SUFFRAGETTE HUMBLED.

In Safety Scornful of Mere Man, In Peril Appeals to Him—No Harm Comes to Despairing Woman Passenger on the Liner New York In Spite of Ominous "Thirteens."

Facing the fate of the people lost on the Empress of Ireland, passengers on the American liner New York, which was in collision at sea with the Pretoria of the Hamburg-American line, chuckled in spite of themselves after several incidents which they witnessed aboard ship.

The passengers were still laughing, when the New York docked, over the sudden change of front on the part of a suffragette at the time of the collision. The woman had been conspicuous on the voyage from Southampton because she wore a large yellow sash over her shoulder bearing in large letters the motto, "Votes For Women." She was a tall, athletic woman and wore a severe tailor made costume. She exclaimed frequently during the trip: "Men! I spurn them!"

This exasperated some of the men passengers to such an extent that one of them stole her sash. This caused the suffragette much annoyance, but she was unable to trace the culprit to recover her property.

"Men, protect me!" She cries.

After the collision she was the first woman on deck. She was much excited and as she ran about she cried: "Men, protect me! Is there no one here who will save a lone woman?"

In response to her appeal a small steward wearing a big life preserver ran up and exclaimed: "Calm yourself, lady. Have no fear. I will save you."

His gallantry was not appreciated by one of the deck officers, who came up at that moment and demanded in no uncertain terms to know what the steward meant by appearing on deck in a life preserver.

"Get below out of this," said the officer, and the steward speeded down the companionway after offering to give his life preserver to the suffragette.

Mrs. Meyer Cohen, wife of the manager of a music publishing company, gave up all for lost when she heard the warning cry of the steward, because it was her thirteenth trip across the Atlantic and because on the last trip her two prize dogs had won a total of thirteen medals in exhibitions in Monte Carlo, Paris, Nice, Cannes and other European cities. Besides, it was the thirteenth day of the month and Friday just scudding away below the western horizon. As soon as she was dressed Mrs. Cohen picked up the Russian leather cases containing Rosemary Red Rambler, a toy spaniel that had won eight prizes, and Mary Christina of Tip, a Blenheim, which had won five. With a case in each hand she ran on deck, where she was assured that the danger was over and that she might go below safely.

Plight of Two Fat Men.

Two stout men owed their deliverance from tight places to Mrs. Cohen, who heard their calls for help, which had been ignored by other passengers. She found the two stout men, with life preservers over their clothing, jammed in the doorways of their cabins, which were on opposite sides of the alley.

In their hurry to get through they had wedged themselves so tightly that they could not move until the baker and his mate, summoned by Mrs. Cohen, arrived with two long staves from a flour barrel, which they used as levers to free the two men, who did not stop to thank them, but dashed madly to the deck.

HAS AN ABNORMAL MEMORY.

Youth, Known as "the Human Encyclopedia," Equal to Questions.

Cleo Smith, a twenty-year-old "human encyclopedia" of Denver, submitted to rapid questioning for three-quarters of an hour by psychologists and others on geography and mathematics and made only one mistake.

One hundred questioners heckled him as fast as they could with printed data before them. Smith's answers came quick and distinct.

At the conclusion of the examination Dr. Duren J. M. Ward of the Colorado New Psychological society said that Smith was possessed of what was known as a "spatial" memory and had a remarkable gift.

"What is the negro population of Atlanta?" was one of the questions asked Smith. His prompt answer tallied exactly with the last census figures.

Other questions he answered correctly related to the names of all the capitals of the world, their altitude and population, the population of every county sent in the United States, the total number of foreigners, number of counties, date of admittance and the number of manufactures in each state as well as the number of manufactures in Canada and every principal city of the United States.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MACARONI FOR SUMMER.

DINNER MENU.
Cream of Spinach Soup.
Macaroni and Meat.
New Potatoes. Green Peas.
Cucumbers With French Dressing.
Gooseberry Tarts.
Coffee.

IN summer many light dishes in which macaroni is used may be substituted for meat. Several of them are mentioned here:

Nice Breakfast Dish.

Macaroni With Egg.—Cook macaroni until tender, drain and pour over it a dash of cold water. Place a layer in a buttered baking dish. Then make alternative layers of egg yolk and macaroni for the top layer. Over all pour cream sauce, then sprinkle over the top dried bread crumbs. Bake until a nice brown.

Macaroni and Meat.—Take cold roast beef or mutton and chop very fine, removing all the fat, fill a dish nearly full with cold boiled macaroni, leaving room in the center for the meat sauce seasoned with pepper, salt, thyme and a little liquor from canned or stewed tomatoes. Pour stock or gravy over all cover with bread crumbs, add two to three spoonfuls melted butter and bake half an hour.

Prepared With Cheese.

Macaroni Ragout.—Take six potatoes, one cupful of macaroni, one cupful of milk; butter, size of egg; cream cheese one-quarter pound; salt and pepper to taste. Boil the potatoes in their jackets. When cold peel and cut in dice. Boil macaroni thirty minutes and blanch in cold water. Set milk, butter and cheese in a bowl over a hot water bath and season on stove until the cheese is melted. Mix potatoes and macaroni and put into milk. When thoroughly heated put in the oven and bake half an hour.

Baked Macaroni With Cheese.—Take one cupful best macaroni, one cupful milk, one cupful of grated American cheese, one teaspoonful of salt, dash of white pepper and a dash of paprika.

Boil, drain and blanch the macaroni. Put into baking dish, which has been brushed with butter; pour over the macaroni the milk, dust with the salt, pepper, paprika and cover with the grated cheese. Cover and bake twenty minutes; uncover and bake until a light brown.

Brown Making Good.

Miner Brown is making a hit as pitcher-manager of the St. Louis Reds. In a recent game Manager Brown almost had to lift Pitcher Brown from the box, but let him stay in against his better judgment and won out.

Brown's speed is not what it used to be, but all the old cunning is still there, and he uses his head better than most boxmen.

Most Precious Possession.

When I see about me, in the fields of intellectual attainment and culture, in the walks of business and in family life, so many disasters and tragedies long drawn out, of falling muscle and collapse of nerve, brain and muscle, I feel that health is the only bulwark upon which everything we prize in intellectual culture and religious perfection can ever be reared.—G. Stanley Hall.

Getting Rid of Hen Lice.

If you have an idea that your hens have no lice on them and have never looked them over to see you had better try it. Many times the hens are strong enough to battle with them, and you do not notice by their actions that anything is wrong, but upon examination you may find lice. There is no doubt in the world that lice on a hen sap her energy so that it retards her egg laying propensities. A thorough dusting with live powder will generally rid her of the lice. Then spray the house and nest boxes with a good solution of kerosene and crude carbolic acid and you will effect a good cleansing.

Old Coats and Old Friends.

My coat and I live comfortably together. It has assumed all my wrinkles, does not hurt me anywhere, has molded itself on my deformities, and is compliant to all my movements, and I only feel its presence because it keeps me warm. Old coats and old friends are the same thing.—Hugo.

MULES FOR FARM WORK.

Points In Which "Long Ears" Excels the Ordinary Horse.

The mule is the cheapest work animal on the farm. He suits the careless hired man and the poor caretaker, writes G. E. Morrison in the Rural New Yorker. Give him a shed, tight on the north and west and open on the south, fitted with long racks and troughs. Keep the racks full of good hay, corn fodder or good roughage, with plenty of good sound corn, oats and bran in the trough, with a supply of fresh water, and you have all that is necessary to take care of the mule. When the mules come in from work (take off the harness and turn them loose. They will lie down and roll, get up and take a drink, another roll and then eat some hay and grain. In this way the mule eats, drinks and rests all night, and when you are ready to work Mr. Mule is ready. Work him hard for six months and he will be in better condition than when he commenced.

A mule will not get foundered. He will run off, but never gets hurt; he has enough wit to stop when he gets in danger or a tight place. A horse will hurt himself, break up wagons, machinery and when scared lose any sense that he ever had. A mule will do more work, look better with less care than a horse and do the work better.

Training Outweighs Long Service

There is no better proof of this than the every-day scenes of long service, untrained employees at the beck and call of younger men who occupy the big positions because of their training. It's a case of Training vs. Long Service—with the odds in favor of the trained man.

ESCAPED AUTO BANDIT DRIVES OFF WITH WIFE

Altoona Robber Meets Her on Road.

Altoona, Pa., June 18.—After remaining in hiding since he escaped from the Blair county jail on Easter morning, Frank G. Hori, the auto bandit who shot up and robbed the Union bank here on March 23, wounded Cashier A. P. Rupert and a depositor and got away with $2800, emerged long enough to drive away with his wife, who has been staying at her home in Salem, Ohio, ever since his arrest, and both have disappeared.

Chief of Police Tillard was informed that Hori drove up in an automobile, entered his wife's home with a revolver in each hand and demanded that she be produced.

Informing that she had gone out on a road near town to meet him, he sped away, picked her up and that was the last heard of either.

Circulars with pictures and descriptions are being sent to all police departments.

TREATY FIGHT BEGUN IN SENATE

Columbian and Nicaraguan Pacts Presented.

BITTER CONTEST EXPECTED

Ratification Requires a Two-Thirds Vote, Which Means That Thirteen Republicans Must Join With Democrats.

Washington, June 18.—A fight which is expected to exceed in bitterness even the canal tolls struggle was begun when Secretary Bryan transmitted to the senate the treaty with Colombia for the settlement of the Panama controversy, and the treaty for the application of the Platt amendment to Nicaragua.

The ratification of these two treaties requires a two-thirds vote. This means that thirteen Republicans will have to vote with the Democrats to ratify.

The Colombian treaty will be attacked on three grounds—the "expression of regret" for President Roosevelt's action, the payment of $25,000,000 for title to the canal zone, and the admission of the alleged wrong done Colombia when the United States recognized the sovereignty of Panama.

The Nicaragua treaty will be fought on the ground that it provides for a protectorate by the United States over the Central American republic. The attack will be led by Senator William Alden Smith, of Michigan, who has demanded an investigation of state department activities in Nicaragua.

Secretary Bryan in person briefly explained both treaties to the foreign relations committee and asked that they be acted upon as soon as possible. Mr. Bryan stated after the meeting that the Colombian treaty was introduced for ratification, but the Nicaraguan treaty was introduced merely for criticism.

"Did the criticism materialize?" the secretary was asked. "Not yet, but I expect that it will," he replied with a smile.

Objection to the treaties in the committee was not confined to the Republican senators. Some Democrats expressed disapproval of the terms. Particular objection was raised to the expression in the Colombian treaty of the "sincere regret" and to the indemnity of $25,000,000.

The Nicaraguan treaty would gain for the United States exclusive rights to construct an interoceanic canal across Nicaragua, permit establishment of naval bases in the Atlantic and Pacific and pay Nicaragua $3,000,000.

SUES FOR $30,000 HEART BALM

Miss Howe Charges English Fiance Broke Troth.

New York, June 18.—Miss Florence Howe, of Pittsford, Pa., sister of William D. Howe, of the Yale club, and a society girl, caused her fiance, Frederick McCabe, an Englishman in the employ of the Standard Marine Insurance company, to be arrested in his office for fear he would return to England and thwart her efforts to obtain $30,000 worth of heart balm, which she feels she has endured because McCabe jilted her.

McCabe was taken to the sheriff's office, where he was released on a $2500 bond after he told the sheriff that Miss Howe is ten years older than he is, and that while he may be considered a "cad," he does not wish to burden Miss Howe with a false love. Otherwise he said Miss Howe is a lovely girl and well worth the affection—"aye" the adoration—of any young man except himself.

Miss Howe says McCabe proposed to her on Sept. 12 last and that she accepted him.

WILSON FAVORS SOCIAL WORK

President's Daughter Says He Would Improve Condition of Poor.

Chicago, June 18.—"My father likes to have me interest myself in civics and all kinds of social betterment work," said Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president. "He is greatly interested in improving the condition of the poor."

Miss Wilson spoke before the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Chicago. Her subject was "What the Federation Can Do For the Young Women of America."

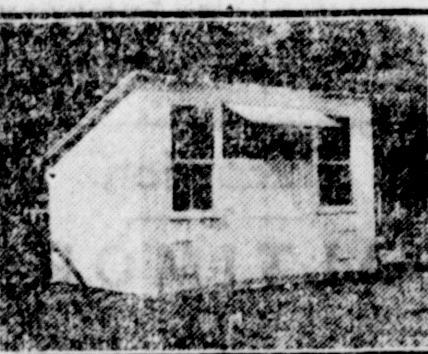

She will attend the conference to be held in a few days in Madison, Wis., on social settlement work.

EGGS and POULTRY

ECONOMY OF CHICKENS.

Feed of Poultry Largely Gleaned From the Farm Waste.

In feeding a flock of hens the farmer has the advantage over the city poultryman. Where live stock is kept there is a considerable amount of grain dropped upon the ground which could not be utilized other than by poultry. This grain in most cases would be a total loss to the average farmer unless eaten by the fowls, but in every instance the equivalent would have to be purchased by the city poultryman. Many times most of the grains used in feeding poultry are produced by the farmer at a cost lower than that at which it could be purchased by his city contemporary. On most farms milk is available for feeding.

Fowls should have a comfortable house with scratch feed, good nests, roosts, dropping board and a roomy grass yard where they may be confined when necessary. The barn should be shut against the wasters. The stables should be screened against flies, and the flock should be kept away from the manure piles. There are farms where hens pay but little because little attention is paid to the hens. The colony house herewith shown is recommended by the United States department of agriculture.

able for feeding. Its value as an egg producer is not exceeded by any other one feed in existence. Chaff from the barn loft, containing many seeds that are readily consumed by poultry, can be used as a bed or litter in the poultry house instead of being wasted, as would otherwise be the case.

There is an enormous loss incurred by the farmers and others who are producing eggs due to improper methods of caring for them. The greatest loss is caused by the production of fertile eggs, which are eggs produced by hens having a male bird running with the flock. In the heated seasons these eggs start to incubate and soon develop blood rings that readily spoil the meat content and rot. Not only the advisability but the desirability of producing the infertile egg should not be lost sight of. The infertile egg is produced by hens having no male bird with them. These eggs when marketed under the same conditions as the fertile eggs reach the consumer in much better condition than the latter, and it is impossible to produce in them the blood ring. A male bird is not necessary in a flock for the production of eggs. Hens if properly taken care of and fed will lay just as many and as good eggs without the attentions of the male as a flock having a male bird with them.

MONEY IN COCKERELS.

Directions For Fitting the Young Stock For Market.

The young cockerels should be marketed, except those that it is desired to keep for breeding purposes, as soon as they have attained the broiler size. There is no other time in which the young males will pay as much profit as at the broiler age, and by penning these youngsters, or, in fact, any of the fowls intended for market, for about two weeks and then feeding them the following ration a profit over and above what would be otherwise received will accrue:

Compound a mash composed of equal parts cornmeal, low grade wheat flour or middlings and bran, same to be fed morning and noon, with all the cracked corn they will eat at night. Green feed should be supplied to keep them in good condition. The ration mentioned can be improved to some extent by using milk instead of water in mixing it.—United States Department of Agriculture.

A Good Fertilizer.

If one is to keep a flock of 100 to 200 fowls it would pay him to put a board in the poultry house to catch the droppings of the fowls. These droppings, if gathered frequently, mixed with dirt and kept under cover or away from the rain until it is desired to use will be found to be very good fertilizer; at any rate, the labor entailed is more than justified in the benefit to be derived from this source.

AS IN MIDDLE AGES

German Executions Conducted as in Ancient Times.

Ax and Block, Long Superseded Elsewhere, Still Used in Prussia—Descriptions of Decapitations Are Not Published.

A widespread agitation is now being started in Germany to abolish the use of the ax and the block in the execution of criminals, a New York Tribune's Berlin correspondent writes. As is well known, Germany is the only civilized country which has retained this barbarous form of executing the death sentence of the law. The human butcher block has been suppressed in France, in England and even in Russia, while in other countries, like Belgium, the death penalty, though still written in the law, is never turned into fact, and always means lifelong hard labor.

In Germany the law provides that the sentence of death must be executed through decapitation. Moreover, advocates of the present system contend that the glistening ax and the black draped block are a greater and more efficient symbol of the terrible final act of the law than any of the apparatus used in other countries.

Still, a number of the German states have abolished the ax and the block. Its use is now confined principally to Prussia and the old Prussian provinces of Brandenburg, including Berlin, Silesia, Pomerania, Posen, Saxony and East Prussia, Hesse, Hanover and Westphalia, the later Prussian provinces, use the French guillotine. In Bavaria, because of the repugnance of the late Prince-Regent Luitpold and his son, King Ludwig, to capital punishment, a death sentence was seldom passed. When judges did impose it the prince-regent almost invariably commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

Prussians of the aggressive, ruthless type, who made Prussia the main factor in the empire, oppose the abolition of the medieval executions. They claim that the German ax and block method is no more gruesome or inhuman than the form of executions in other countries. They assert that things have been known to go wrong with mechanical appliances such as used in guillotining, hanging and electrocution, while an accident is practically impossible with an ax in the hands of a public executioner who knows his business. It is actually contended by some that the ax is more humane than the rope.

In German beheadings the condemned has little opportunity to see anything of his executioner or of the means employed. In Berlin the executions take place in the courtyard of the Ploetzensee penitentiary. A large, flat flagstone, on which the headman stands in order to have a firm footing, marks the spot. When the hour arrives warders enter the cell of the condemned man and quickly cut away the collar of his shirt, in order to leave the neck bare. He is led outside. As he enters the courtyard through a small door he is quickly wheeled about, so that his back is toward the fatal spot, and faces two officials, who read to him that the sentence of the law is about to be executed.

Immediately and quickly he is seized by two strong warders, who half carry, half drag him backward several yards to the "block." This latter, at least in Berlin, differs from the old English headman's block. Instead of being forced to kneel down in front of it, the condemned man is thrown face down on a long, heavy log, a benchlike "block," to which he is strapped. His chin and head fit into a semicircular hole in the end of the "block." The headman, immaculately clad in black evening suit, who until now has been invisible, suddenly steps forward with a huge ax in his hands. He does not "swing" the ax to his shoulders with wood chopping motion—the ax is almost too heavy for that—but walks quickly to the victim, poises the instrument for a moment about two and a half feet above the end of the log block and with unerring aim drops it upon the neck. It is over. The ax is of such razorlike sharpness and is so heavy that its edge sinks deep into the log block with a crunching sound. The execution consumes less time than is necessary to read this description of it.

Perhaps one reason that there has been no movement before toward the abolition of the ax and block lies in the fact that details of executions are never printed in the German press. Usually an execution is told in two or three lines, reading: "So-and-so was executed today for the murder of So-and-so."

Laura Jean Libbey's Talks on Heart Topics

MAKE YOUNG GIRLS' LIVES HAPPY.

"Soft is the breath of a maiden's kiss; Not the light gossamer stirr with less; But never a cable that holds so fast Through all the battles of wave and blast."

There's many a woman who looks out discontentedly upon a heavy snowfall, wondering how she shall amuse herself on so dismal a day. Let me suggest a merry idea. If she is living in a country town, and is well-to-do, why not plan to give the young girls of the place the time of their lives? By night the snow will be packed down hard. She has a couple of old wagons in the barn which could be put on runners, and there's plenty of horses in the stable, neighing and whinnying their eagerness for a dash down the road. Why not send her chora boy around to the shops and mills and invite the tired girls returning home from work to a straw ride an hour or so later?

They are informed they need not bother about eating much dinner at home; their hostess will attend to that. What poor little girls to whom a sleighride is a luxury she has often dreamed of, but never experienced, would not clap her hands and fairly scream with joy at such an invitation? Of course, there would have to be plenty of young men invited to make it jolly for the girls. What young fellow with bounding red blood in his veins would refuse a straw ride, the first sleighride of the season, especially if his best girl was to go along?

There's magic in the crisp air; there's a charm in the dainty white carpet that covers hill and dell. Even the man in the moon—who might be called a full brother to Eve when it concerns curiosity, peeps out from behind a cloud to see what it's all about—the laughter of maidens, the shouts of exuberant young fellows and the joyous jingle of the bells. Of course somebody strikes up a tune. The girls all know the song, and the welkin rings with their glad young voices trolling out the songs which always appeal to young hearts.

Those who only know the tune make up words to suit the occasion, provoking continuous bursts of laughter from the merry crowd. And oh! what appetites they have when the sandwiches, doughnuts, gingerbread and apples are passed around. When they stop at their hostess' door to say goodnight a cup of steaming coffee awaits them. It makes the good lady's heart glow in her bosom to listen to the thanks they pour forth, and the blessings they heap upon her for giving them the most glorious time that they ever had in their lonely young lives.

What a world of happiness well-to-do women upon whose hands time hangs heavily could scatter through the paths of young girls who are bread-winners and have few of life's pleasures! In winter time young girls who have no one interested in them to escort them about usually have dreary evenings.

Why don't the fortunate young matrons get together and plan a series of amusements for working girls, always extending invitations as well to nice young men to meet them—young men who are thrifty and would make good husbands; those who admit they wouldn't object to marrying if they could find the right kind of a girl? It takes a popular matron to start such a ball rolling. She must get her women friends interested and they, in turn, will do their share. What a boon to employed lads and lassies! Winter evenings would have no terrors for them. There would always be some joyous prospect to look forward to. Girls have but one youth-time. If you know any girl whose life is lonely, try to make it happy for her.

A Century Ago.

One hundred years ago the battle of Toulouse was fought between the British forces under Lord Wellington and the French led by Marshal Soult. Neither of the commanders knew at that time that the allies had taken Paris and that Napoleon had abdicated the throne of France. After 12 hours of severe fighting the French were forced to retreat. The British lost more than 4,500 men in the engagement. Two days later the allied British and Spanish armies entered the city of Toulouse and at the same time learned that hostilities between France and allied nations had ceased. For his success ending with the victory at Toulouse Wellington was rewarded with the title of duke.

Medical Advertising QUESTION CLEARED UP

Gettysburg Readers Can No Longer
Doubt the Evidence

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Gettysburg's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Gettysburg been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

W. N. Flaherty, 311 Washington St., Gettysburg, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great benefit to me and I willingly recommend them. I was injured some years ago and my kidneys were affected. I used various remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly cured me. Whenever I have taken them since, they have done good work."

The Mysterious Stories

By EVERETT J. MARKLE

I am a man of artistic taste, but having taken up business, I have felt the necessity of finding something to occupy and divert my mind during my leisure hours. I began writing stories. After amusing myself at this work for awhile I constructed a story that I thought pretty good and tried it on a magazine. To my surprise, it was accepted. I sent out more and was rewarded with more acceptance.

When I came to be troubled with insomnia my story writing furnished me with occupation during hours of wakefulness. I have written many a story, or part of a story between 1 and 4 in the morning. I boarded with a lady Mrs. Stoughton, and her daughter Kate. I may admit in passing that when a man boards with a lady who has a daughter, especially if that daughter is attractive, he is likely to put a matrimonial rope around his neck. At any rate, an affair was brewing between Kate Stoughton and myself. She used to twit me for sitting up in the middle of the night scribbling, for I didn't admit that I was troubled with insomnia. But Kate was always joking me, and anything she said was acceptable.

One evening I went up to my room carrying a magazine with me to read during my evening awake. Turning over the leaves, I came to a story by some one who had the same name as myself. I read the story, and it seemed to me as if I might have dreamed it myself. But our mental faculties are very subtle, and it occurred to me that my seeming connection with it might have come from an infinitesimal ly small period of suspended animation, at the awakening from which I fancied I had seen the story before.

But this did not explain my name being used as the author of the stories. I was puzzled over this, especially because I was not familiar with any magazine writer of my name—Truce. It is not an uncommon one, and doubtless there were other scribblers bearing it, but I knew none such, especially with my initials.

I didn't think much of this at the time, for my business, which had been running so smoothly, began to give me a lot of trouble, and I was finally on the verge of closing it out. I was hanging by my fingers, so to speak, when I saw another story with my name to it, and, strange to say, there was the same faint dreamy knowledge of it that had pertained to the former one. The fellow's stories evidently pleased magazine readers, for they began to appear quite often. I read every one I came across, and my astonishment grew with each, for there was none but reminded me of something I had heard or read or dreamed.

Then it occurred to me to go to some of the magazine offices and find out who the writer was. I went first to an editor I knew best.

"Hello," he said, "You're just the man I want to see. I sent a check to you the other day for one of your stories, and the letter inclosing it came back unopened. Have you taken to scribbling for no pay?"

"I haven't sent you a story for months."

"Not 'The Moonshiner'?"

"No." This was one of the other fellow's I had read.

The editor looked at me, puzzled. Then I told him what had happened. He had supposed the stories with my name attached to them came from me and he had no explanation of the mystery to offer. He handed me a fat check, but I declined it and went to see other editors in whose magazines the other scribbler's stories had appeared. They had all supposed that I was the author of the manuscripts sent in, and all had credited me with the amount due in all more than a thousand dollars.

Now I had got through my business troubles, but a thousand dollar note coming due in a few days. All I had to do was to accept checks in payment for my stories and I would be "out of the woods." But I had not written the stories and had no right to take pay for them. Besides, if I did so and the real author turned up I would be liable to prosecution for swindling.

I was in a condition of mind where a man needs to confide in some one. That evening I saw Kate Stoughton and told her the whole story, including the fact that the use of a thousand dollars would save my business. "Then go to morning," she said, "and I will see the money from the magazines. The morning mother found a man's shirt in a drawer of your desk; then another and another at intervals. One night she saw you writing and spoke to you. You didn't answer. You were writing in your sleep or some similar condition. I read the stories, and it occurred to me that it would be a good joke to send them out to magazines. I did so and they were all accepted. In some instances letters came for you from the magazines. Some I opened and found checks inclosed. I resealed the envelopes and returned them. Such is my confession. I am sorry now that I didn't give them to you."

I was so delighted at having the money to pull me through in my business affairs that I threw my arms around her neck and thereby put the halter of matrimony that I spoke of around my own.

But how I wrote the stories is still a mystery to me, and no one has ever yet been able to give me any explanation.

World's Principal Want.

I know few wants that press upon our modern life with more immediate necessity than the want of silence.—Sidney Lanier.

Medical Advertising Have Dark Hair

and Look Young

Nobody can Tell when you
Darken Gray, Faded Hair
with Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

Well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

Post Toasties

For That Bedtime Snack

The kiddies need something that is dainty and appetizing, don't they? And you want to be sure that they have a food that is easily digested—one that will not disturb their sleep.

Post Toasties are surprisingly good at any time.

They are made of the hearts of the finest Indian corn, perfectly cooked, delicately sweetened and salted, rolled into thin, ribbonary flakes and toasted to a crisp, golden brown.

They have that indescribable flavour—sweet and delicious, that so delights the taste.

Just pour from the package and add cream and sugar, or sprinkle over fresh berries or fruit.

Easy to serve and mighty good.
